

Assistant Professor, School of Social Work

Rank: Assistant Professor

Tenure Information: Tenure Track

Department Summary:

The School of Social Work at Bridgewater State University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track teaching positions at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning September 2022. The School of Social Work houses two CSWE accredited programs, a Master of Social Work and a Bachelor of Social Work, a professional education program for practicing professionals, as well as a new major in Childhood Studies. Our School has experienced a period of enrollment growth and the addition of two program options—a BSW evening program and an MSW Saturday Program. The School of Social Work (SSW) at Bridgewater State University is part of a cohesive campus community that provides professional opportunities for faculty advancement in teaching and scholarship and a clear path to tenure. Funding for faculty scholarship is available through the Center for the Advancement of Research and Scholarship as well as the Office of Teaching and Learning. There is also a significant institutional commitment and resources for undergraduate research and international engagement.

The SSW is committed to strengthening a justice-informed identity and supports diversity, equity and inclusion among its faculty, staff and students as an integral part of its strategic plan. This emphasis is reflected throughout the University's curricular and co-curricular activities. Bridgewater State University is a teaching intensive, regional, comprehensive university located in Southeastern Massachusetts with easy access to Boston, Providence and Cape Cod. Many of our students are working, first-generation college students, Pell eligible, and/or students of color. Our students have an enthusiasm for learning and a great capacity for overcoming obstacles. The University community is committed to student and faculty success. Examples of this commitment include maintaining small class sizes, offering opportunities for funded undergraduate research with faculty members, and graduate assistantships for MSW students to support faculty research.

Essential Duties:

Teaching responsibilities will be in the undergraduate and/or graduate social work programs. Primary course responsibilities may include: human behavior and the social environment; the dynamics of diversity and oppression; practice with individuals, families or groups; and field seminar. Teaching assignments will depend on the expertise of the candidate and programmatic needs. A commitment to working with non-traditional students will require evening and some weekend teaching. Additional responsibilities include student advising, curriculum/program development and assessment, and collaboration on school, college, and university-wide committees. Applicants should be able to demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and advising and to working with a diverse student body. Applicants whose teaching and research agendas are informed by culturally inclusive and social justice approaches are strongly encouraged to apply. Applicants should have the ability to work collaboratively and use technology effectively in teaching and learning. Applicants must demonstrate evidence of scholarly activity and a commitment to public higher education.

Required Qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in social work or a closely related field by September 1, 2022.
